City in the World, the fifth and last book of Per Anders Fogelström’s famed Stockholm Series, covers the years from 1945 through 1968. The author depicts the progress of the Swedish social experiment during this period as Swedish society struggles to find peaceful solutions to many challenges. As ever, Fogelström displays great sympathy and insight into characters we know well by now, immersed in the world of their time, a time in which Stockholm has become a city in the world.

Stockholm Series V: City in the World continues the family saga of the Nilsson Family set against the events in Sweden and the World. The saga which began in the 1860’s, now finds the family in the mid 1900’s following World War II through the 1960’s. As in the four preceding books, this is beautifully written and very interesting. It is a historical novel set in real places and real events with a wonderful family story intertwined. Great book!
